ANDREWS-WIGGINTON

Wednesday night at 7 o'clock Nov. 16th Mr. Ozias Andrews, son of Bell Andrews was married at the residence of Rev. W. T. Oakley to Miss Linnie Wigginton daughter of Mr. Benjamin Wigginton. Rev. Oakley officiated. It was a quiet affair and no attendants. The young people are an estimable couple and have many friends who will wish them a happy path throughout life.

BIG LAND DEAL

A land deal of unusual proportions for this section was put through Saturday when the McFee land on the Ohio river was conveyed by deeds signed by all the heirs to Ed Cook for the sum of $10,500.00. The farm contains 300 acres and lies just before Fords Ferry and two thirds of it being river bottom land.

Hughes—Ross.

Miss Ada Hughes, daughter of L. L. Hughes, and one of the most popular girls ever reared in old Crittenden has at last surrendered to cupid arrows and is a bride. The Emporia Kansas Gazette says:

Hughes-Ross.

Miss Ada Hughes and Clarence Ross were married Saturday evening at 8:30 in the study of the First Presbyterian church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. S. L. Grigsby. The wedding was a complete surprise to the acquaintances of the young people, and to their most intimate friends. Mrs. Ross has lived in Emporia for the past three years and has been employed in the E. B. Downs Toggery Shop. She has scores of friends who wish her happiness. Mr. Ross has for the greater part of his life lived in Missouri. He came to Emporia last spring and has been employed as an artist and is a young man of fine qualifications.

CHANGE WOMAN'S LIFE

by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—Mrs. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing woman's ills such as inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

Many Persons Killed

In Quake In Sicily.

Cantania, Oct. 20.—An earthquake of brief duration occurred in Sicily Sunday. The strongest shocks were felt at Giarre, at the east base of Mt. Etna, Macchia, Guardia, Roudinella, and Santa Venerina. At Guardia and Santa Venerina several houses collapsed and two persons were killed. At Macchia a church was demolished. Considerable damage was done at Roudinella.

Reports from the districts affected by the earthquake indicate that many persons were killed, probably by the collapse of buildings. Troops were dispatched to the work of rescue, and succeeded in removing twenty bodies. Eighty persons are known to have been injured.

A TEXAS WONDER

In Memorial.

Thursday Oct. 12th, 1911, at midnight, the death angel entered the home of M. J. Jacobs and called dear uncle Dock home to Heaven.

He was born Feb. 26, 1846, in Crittenden county Ky., where he lived until March, 1907, he moved with his family to Yakima Valley, bought a nice home at Zillah, where he made many friends here in the surrounding country. All who knew him, loved him.

In early childhood he professed faith in Christ and united with his parents with the Cumberland Presbyterian church, where he remained a constant member until death.

April 27, 1869, he was married to Pernecie C. Crayne, and to this union were added four sons and five daughters, (five died in infancy.)

He leaves a wife, two sons, two daughters, one grand daughter, five brothers and a host of relatives and friends to mourn his loss.

He was afflicted the past year with kidney trouble. The last three months he could not get out, scarcely out of the house or bed. He bore his sufferings with patience, never complaining or murmuring, always ready to go when God called him.

He was a faithful companion, good father and loving brother. Man who feared God and did right.

His two oldest brothers are still in Kentucky, and three brothers here. All his family stood over him to the last, did all that could be done for his recovery, but he had fought the good fight, kept the faith, finished his work, only has closed his eyes and fell asleep in Jesus, to go home to his reward and mansion prepared for him on high.

The funeral service was held at the home, Saturday, 14th, at 10 a. m., conducted by uncle John Woodall, a childhood friend.

A large concourse of relatives and friends followed his remains to the beautiful Zillah cemetery where we laid his body to rest.

"Weep not dear ones, I'm not dead, but gone home." was one of his mottoes to all earnest Christians, as he had lived for forty odd years.

"No deed of love or goodness ever dies, But in lives of others, multiplies, Say his work is just begun; Be comforted, ye loved who weep—He lives with God— He is not dead."

Ishi, Wild Man, Charmed By Blonde

Aborigine From Deer Creek Admired The Woman With Hat Like Roof.

San Francisco, Oct. 23.—Ishi, the aborigine from the wild Deer Creek county, is in a fair way of being domesticated. Already he is not so wild but that the gentle passion can soothe his savage breast.

Ishi held a reception in the anthropological museum of the affiliated colleges today and amused and instructed his guest by wearing a primitive fish net.

Of a sudden he stopped weaving and fixed his eyes on a tall blonde who wore a hat under which Ishi could hide. The blonde's cheeks grew rosier and Ishi kept staring; then he grunted and gurgled something to Sam Batwee who translates Ishi's South Yana guttural's into English.

"He says that the woman under the roof is more beautiful than moonshine on the lake, more beautiful than a doe's eyes, more beautiful!"

The tall blonde, blushing furiously, vanished.

Poke's Sweet "Taters."

Poke Eazley's patch of sweet potatoes was destroyed by potato bugs last night, and nothing remains but the hills. It came as a complete surprise to Poke and he was asleep with his feet out the window when it happened and remembers dreaming of the occurrence while it was happening, but did not get up. He remembers also of seeing bugs in the vicinity of his patch late yesterday evening, but thought nothing strange of it. The bugs upon leaving the patch, went in an easterly direction and Poke traced them to the Gander creek bridge, where he lost all trail and turned back. They are believed to be headed towards Musket Ridge and Bat Smith has loaded his gun heavily with buckshot and will guard his patch, next to the moonshine still.—Hogwallow Kentuckian.

Duck Season Near.

Duck hunters are beginning to feel the call of the wild. They are watching the sky at dawn and dusk in hopes of seeing a flock of the wild birds on their way south. One hunter said that when he awakened this morning he thought he heard the call of the ducks and jumping from his bed, rushed to the window in hopes of seeing a flock of the ducks. He was disappointed, but he was not alone. ST. SOPHIA'S Fifteen Centuries Old.

The oldest of the world's architectural marvels—the Byzantine dome of St. Sophia's, in Constantinople—is threatening to collapse beneath the weight of its fifteen centuries of existence. At this moment a commission of French, Italians and Turkish experts are considering means of preventing such a disaster, which would be lamented not only by every traveller in the East, but by Christians and Moslem alike.

Not only the centuries, but humidity, earthquakes, conflagrations, bombardments, have, each and all, contributed their share of damage, undermining slowly but surely the strength and solidity of a proud memorial of Hellenic inspiration and Hellenic achievement.

The Emperor John VI. Palaeologus in the fourteenth century did much to preserve the temple. In more recent times (1847) the enlightened Sultan Abdul Medjid undertook the reparation of the damage done by time and earthquake.

Last year the Ottoman government engaged the well-known Italian architect, Signor Marangoni, who had restored the Campanile on the Piazza St. Marco in Venice, to investigate the damage done by time and earthquake. government considered this was too high a sum to be spent on an object that is, after all, of no paramount national interest to the Moslems themselves, since the edifice is, of course, a Christian house of worship.

Accordingly the work necessary to preserve the venerable monument to Christianity will be performed under an international plan.

MEETS DEATH

Famous Flyer's Machine Turns Turtle in Air During Flight at Macon, Ga.

Macon, Ga., Oct. 31.—Eugene Ely, the famous aviator, fell while making a flight at the State fair grounds today at 2:55 o'clock and was so seriously injured that death resulted soon after.

He was rushed to the hospital in an unconscious condition, bloody and with many bones broken. He had just risen from the ground and was making his first turn, in a sort of dip over the crowd, when his machine plunged to the ground.

Ely is survived by a young wife, whom he married in California.

Ely was the first man to alight on the deck of a warship with an aeroplane. During an aviation meet held in San Mateo county, California, Ely in a biplane, flew from the aviation camp to San Francisco, a distance of about twenty miles, and alighted on the cruiser Pennsylvania, which was anchored in San Francisco bay. After holding a reception on board the warship, Ely flew from the ship back to the aviation camp and landed safely.

Previous to this time, Ely had made a flight from the deck of a warship anchored in Chesapeake bay. Although he struck the water as he left the ship, he managed to reach shore. Ely formerly was engaged as an automobile salesman in San Francisco. He became prominent as an aviator about two years ago.

LYON-DODDS WEDDING.

The marriage of Miss Ruth Dodds and Hugh Lyon, which took place at the United Presbyterian church, Crider, Ky., Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock, was an event of unusual interest and importance owing to the social prominence of the contracting parties. The bride being one of the most beautiful and popular girls, of the Crider country, and the groom a prominent farmer of that section. He is a son of the late General Lyon, of Eddyville, a distinguish officer of the Confederate army, and a lineal descendant of Colonel Mathew Lyon, founder of Eddyville and for whom the county of Lyon was named.

The church was beautifully decorated with caladiums ferns and cysanthemums, and lighted by many candles. As the friends of the couple arrived they were met at the entrance and conducted by the pretty girl ushers—Misses Virginia Wyatt, Isabel Guess, Mary D. Turley and Mary Louise Myers; while Miss Nellie Guess at the organ, accompanied by Gage Adamson, on the violin, discoursed sweetest music until the hour for the ceremony. When Mrs. Mat Kevil, sister of the groom, played the wedding march as the bridal party, preceded by the ushers, passed down the aisles. The bride with her maid of honor Miss Ida Turley, and the groom with his best man Mr. Adamson, meeting at the Altar where Rev. Andre, the officiating minister, in a very beautiful and impressive ceremony united them for life.

They left immediately for St. Louis to visit the bride's sister. After their return they will reside at the Machen place the ancestral home of the groom's mother, and now owned by him.

The country roads are still in fine condition for autoing and almost every day are seen in our town, parties from Marion, Princeton, Crider and other places.

DONT JUDGE A MANURE SPREADER BY LOOKS

Every manure spreader is not a Cloverleaf that looks like one. You can't judge a manure spreader by its looks because there are many features which are found in the construction of one machine that are not found in others. Cloverleaf manure spreaders are the most easily operated, the strongest and best machines on the market. If you will examine one critically, you will agree with us that the Cloverleaf is the best machine you ever looked at. Drop in. Let us discuss the manure spreader proposition. Let us explain the many marvellous features found in Cloverleaf construction. Better still, buy one, then you will be in a better position to know why you can't judge a manure spreader by its looks. If you are not ready to buy, call and get a catalogue. It is filled with valuable information on soil maintenance and fertility. We are reserving one for you. Won't you call and get it today?

Where my Aunt Lizzie's is, is where We go Thanksgiving Day, an' she Wears turtle shell combs in her hair An' 's just as nice as she can be;
An' it's th' country there, an' ain't No street cars, nor policemen—O, An' if you ever scratch the paint She lets on like she doesn't know.

An' where Aunt Lizzie's is, is trees—An' once we went in summer time An' I got 'quinted with th' bees, An' she don't care how much I climb, But now th' bees is gone to sleep, But my Aunt Lizzie, she can get Th' honey 'at th' bees all keep Out where their funny houses set.

An' my Aunt Lizzie, she makes pies, An' she has jelly, too, an' jam, An' pickles, too—th' biggest size!—
An' quince p'serves, an' cake, an' ham, An' apple butter—yes, an' lots Of other butter! An' she cooks More things in grea' big pans an' pots, An' talks about how hot she looks.

An' my Aunt Lizzie says 'at I Just ought to stay right there wif her, An' says she'll warrant by-an'-by My cheeks 'd both be red—yes, sir!
An' my Aunt Lizzie cooks more things 'An you could buy in any store, An' calls her pickle peaches "clings," An' asts us all to take some more.

An' my Aunt Lizzie, when we go To her house on Thanksgiving Day, She's got her yard filled full of snow She says, just so 'at I can play.
An' she makes pa an' ma keep still An' let me have four kinds of cake—An' I eat full as I can fill, An' then I have th' stomach ache!

Little Henry on Thanksgiving

HANKSGIVIN is the time when turkeys go up to thirty cents a pound and everybody begins to think that before long they will have to go broke buyin' Christmas presents.

There are lots of people in the world that is too poor to be able to let the market-man skin them out of thirty cents a pound for turkeys, & so they otto be very thankful.

Thanksgivin started away long ago when there wasent but a few people in this country and they lived away down east and there wasent any railroads so they couldn't go home for Thanksgivin dinner, so they concluded to have there own Thanksgiving.

They was colonists and they colonized on Plymouth Rock, wich is on the edge of the ocean and costs you twenty five cents to see unless your ancestors come over on the Mayflower. The Mayflower was a boat that come from England once with a lot of people in it and a lot of clocks and spinnin wheels and things.
Unkel Bill sez there must have been a whole fleet of Mayflowers, becose he has seen enough clocks alone to fill 2 ships hisself. If your ancestors come over in the Mayflower your ma has the right to sniff at somebody else that only got into this country by train till they could come over in days and play poker all the e people that got up Thankshere before the revolution, ident have enough to eat year. They rote home for but didnt get any and so to go to work and raise crops als to eat Bill sez they was so poor for a while that evry family had from tes to forty dogs.

The igrotes wich live in the Phil-peen lands eat dogs they have so many, also people huntin the north pole eet dogs. Unkel Bill sez he don't see why they cant find the north pole if they will only take a lot of saint burnard dogs along instead of poodles in the north pole the nites is 6 months long & when people go out to spend the evenin they haf to pack there trunks for a long visit.

We should all be very thankful that we dont live in the Philippine lands many friends to whom I promised to write, I will say that we arrived at Los Angeles on schedule time, [that is on Sunday at one-thirty p. m.,] was met there by my son Ed., and changed cars for this place, which was the first change since leaving Princeton.

We arrived here about five p. m. and were met by the two families of my son and daughter. I found them all at the station ready to receive us and you may guess it was a happy meeting. Ed has been out here eight and one-half years and my daughter four years.

Our trip was without incident save what we could see from a car window running about forty miles an hour. Of course when we got down in Tennessee and Mississippi we saw a great deal of cotton but it seemed to me rather light but there were bales and bales of all along at the stations until we got to the cane belt and then it was cane and cane and more cane, then after crossing the river it was cane and rice.
The swamps were covered with cypress and spanish moss hanging from the trees from top to bottom, the water was covered with water hyacinths in full bloom which made a solid bouquet.
We found some nice country in at first and then [what,] Mosquito cactus live oak is the best land and then cactus of all kinds, some two feet through and some less all through Texas until we got to El Paso and then some more.
When we got to El Paso the passenger conductor came around and set your time back two hours which we did and that is the only time I have set my time since leaving home and am exactly with train time here.

[Question is this the Rio Grand yes! and across yonder is Old Mexico nothing but hills and mountains in sight. The river makes a sudden bend here into New Mexico, we cross here and it seems that I might almost jump across it, that is, across the water. Right here the road runs right up the canyons and sides of the mountains for several hours and then mountains all the way through to Tucson, then to Yuma, Arizona; all mountains. Here we cross the Colorado River, (which is quite a good stream) into California. We don't strike any good land until about two hours from Los Angeles. I am now sixty miles from Los Angeles on the Santa Clara river three miles from Silvermore, a nice little town about the size of Sturgis and eight miles from Santa Paula and twenty five miles from the ocean, right among the oranges, lemons, olives, english walnuts, apricots, grapes, intensified gardening which means gardening all the year over and over, as one comes off another goes in. Hav-'nt been to the coast yet. If this is satisfactory will resume at another time, I got my Press alright.

W. D. HAYNES.

As Editors See That Landslide.

To Theodore Roosevelt the disaster that has befallen his party and the sweeping character of the democratic victory are in large measure due—New York Times, Ind. Dem.

The great victory is a vindication of the Democratic tariff policy as laid down in its platforms.—Baltimore Sun, Democrat.

In any case, the setback received is chastening and instructive to those Republican interests which persist in defying the popular will—New York Press, Ind. Rep.

Thus at the very day of its birth the "New Nationalism," infant of insurgency, spite, and disorganization, has met defeat complete and overwhelming—Kansas City Journal, Rep.

A forcible rebuke is administered to him (Roosevelt). It ought to chasen and sober him.—Washington Herald, Ind.

The returns which assure a Democratic House of Representatives, the repudiation of the Taft Administration and the Payne-Aldrich tariff, mean the election of a Democratic President in 1912.—Buffalo Times, Dem.

The chief cause of the overthrow of the Republican party was Roosevelt.
Except in the Western States, where ever he spoke he killed his party.— Richmond Times Dispatch, Dem.

Caesarism may some time fall on the republic, but Theodore Roosevelt is evidently not to be the first of that line.
—Springfield Republican, Ind.

It was the tariff.—Chicago Post, Ind.
The people have arisen against those whose leadership they were formerly content to follow. The revolt against Speaker Cannon and the organization in the House of Representatives last spring was a prelude to this general revolution in November.—Philadelphia Press, Rep.

It is pathetic to witness the crash of a popular idol (Roosevelt) But it is a grand tribute to American commonsense to know that periods of delusion, treachery, demagogry and foul slander, like cholera epidemics, can be controlled and ended.—Pittsburg Post, Dem.

At a crucial time Democracy has raised up a great company of leaders; and a great chapter in the long and honorable career of the Democratic party has been written.—Montgomery Advertiser, Dem.

It (the New York result) is a sun-shining protest against the dominance of Theodore Roosevelt. A sufficient number of Republicans in the Empire State have wearied of his self-constituted leadership to turn the governorship over to a Democrat rather than acquiesce in those new policies of his that that threatened to overthrow established institutions and to introduce dangerous innovations in law and government.—Pittsburg Gazette-Times, Rep.

This has been a rather too long one-party country. It is no longer —New York Sun, Ind.

The Democratic party, for years rent by factions, is once more united and harmony should be and will be, let us hope, the watchword for years to come.—Birmingham Age-Herald, Dem.

Republican defeat is a Roosevelt feat.—New York World, Ind. Dem.

The people have expressed their opinion of Mr. Roosevelt, his campaign antics and his "news nationalism."—New York Herald, Ind. Dem.

The result seems to show that the time of one-man control of the party in New York has passed.—Cincinnati Enquirer, Dem.

From this overwhelming rebuke the Republican party should derive a salutary lesson. The harder the error and the more they will learn.—Indianapolis Star, Ind. Rep.

If there were only one great party, it would be a different story; but as it is, no sooner do the political impostors push to the front on the one side than the people turn to the other and leave them standing outside the pale of office honor and power.—Chicago Inter Ocean Rep.

There can be no doubt in reasonable minds that the Republican Waterloo is the outcome of a nation-wide disappointment over the legislation in revision of the tariff.—Chicago Tribune, Ind. Rep.

The break in the control the latter (Roosevelt) exercised was due in the first place to the arrogance of the standpat leaders, who persistently defied public sentiment.—Chicago Record Herald, Ind. Rep.

The chief lesson of the election of 1910 for Republicans should be along the old line that a house divided against itself can not stand. The great mass of Republicans are progressive, rather than radical or reactionary. Their ideas must prevail in the councils of the party if Republicanism is to live and continue as the dominant force in American politics.—Cincinnati Times-Star, owned by C. P. Taft.

At a matter of fact, the result was brought about largely by the fact that so many Republicans stayed away from the polls, disgusted with Mr.
Roosevelt.—New Orleans Time-Democrat, Dem.

Mr. Roosevelt has made a Democratic victory in New York, and contributed materially to Democratic victories elsewhere.—Milwaukee Sentinel, Rep.

The country has turned from the party of only fractional progressivness to the party in which rational progressiveness predominates and controls.—St. Louis Republic, Dem.

Dissatisfied voters have cast their ballots against the party which made an unsatisfactory revision of the tariff, which has kept Ballenger at the head of the great Department of the interior and which has perpetrated the abuses of Cannonism in congressional affairs. On the other hand, reactionaries of the Republican party, defeated at the primaries, knifed the Republican ticket, partly for revenge and partly in the hope of regaining control of the organization by hamstringing it.
